FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

EIU PRESIDENT ANNOUNCES TEMPORARY ADMINISTRATIVE REORGANIZATION

CHARLESTON, IL--Eastern Illinois University President David L. Jorns, as part of an ongoing evaluation of academic and administrative structure at Eastern, has announced a temporary administrative reorganization while the long range strategic planning process continues. Four areas are impacted, and all changes are designed to provide increased coordination and efficiency for the campus during the continuing period of evaluation.

Media relations, formerly a part of the institutional advancement sector, will now report directly to the president and will facilitate media interaction, including press releases.

To provide greater support, coordination and implementation of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), Shirley Moore, dean of academic development, will give focus and direction to the entirety of that effort. All implementation of ADA requirements will be directed by Moore. Previously, part of the responsibility for implementation of ADA rested with the business affairs sector.

The Student Recreation Center, which had formerly reported to both academic affairs and student affairs, will now report exclusively to the vice president for student affairs.

Acting Vice President for Student Affairs Lou Hencken said, "Student recreation programs are increasingly important to the university experience and we look forward to expanding services available to students."

Coordination of Panther Club athletic programming and fund raising will be the responsibility of institutional advancement. "This change centralizes all fund raising in one sector which will allow for greater coordination and productivity," said Stephen C. Falk, vice president for institutional advancement.

Jorns said, "These administrative changes will result in greater efficiency for the university community while we continue our planning process and review of the campus structure. No layoffs will result from these changes."
